About

Web developer with proficiency in HTML, CSS, and JavaScript as well as a number of frameworks and libraries. I have a strong aptitude for creating front-end web applications that prioritize user delight and experience. I have a strong work ethic and prefer tasks that call for both analytical and inventive thinking. My desire to learn motivates me to continuously look for new information and resources that can improve my productivity and skills.

I have knowledge of front-end development as well as back-end development using the Django framework. I have the ability to create dependable, scalable, and effective web apps. My understanding of both front-end and back-end development enables me to approach web development holistically.
